The Opener

By Nate Thompson CEO, Story Medical

As a rural, community-based provider, Story Medical is focused on delivering a mix of services that can meet the needs of residents locally. As such, we are committed to offering comprehensive primary care services through our clinics in Nevada and Maxwell, while continuing to look at adding specialty offerings that are easy for the community to access.

In recent years, we have added several advanced specialties ranging from mental health services to audiology, orthopedics, dermatology and more. In addition to these clinical services, we have expanded our offering of advanced surgical procedures. Our surgeons offer a more extensive list of services than ever, including expertise in total joint replacements, hand surgery, biopsies, gastrointestinal surgery and colonoscopies, and sports injury care.

These offerings are all designed to complement services we have provided for decades.

Truly, our primary focus is on offering a full continuum of care right here in Nevada. For example, a patient who presents in the emergency department with a significant joint injury can be stabilized there, have surgery in our modern operating room, recover on our inpatient unit and then perform rehabilitation with our skilled partners at 21st Century Rehab – all on our easy-to-access campus just one block south of Highway 30.

It is a privilege to serve this community and we are humbled to play a role in the care of so many. As we move forward, we are excited to continue growing and adding services our community members want and need.

To see all we have to offer, I encourage you to check out the article on Page 3 or visit our website at storymedical.org. In taking a closer look it's possible you may find a service you have been traveling to receive that is available right here in Nevada.

Alphabet Ambassadors program at Central

In a partnership known as “Alphabet Ambassadors”, 4th grade students were paired with Kindergartners with the purpose of helping the younger students learn their letter names and letter sounds. Three days per week, the students met in the mornings and spent 10-15 minutes together tracing the letters of the alphabet. This program started at the beginning of the year and concluded after 10 weeks.

The 4th grade students were trained last year as 3rd graders by Erin Klopstad (Reading Specialist), Jennifer Burns (Literacy Consultant) and Debbie Haywood (Instructional Guide).

The older students learned how to instruct correct letter formation that matched what was taught in the Kindergarten classrooms.

The benefits of this program are measurable as well as immeasurable. Kindergarten students learn the letters and sounds of the alphabet, which sets the foundation for learning to read. 4th grade students take on responsibility, create a friendship, teach and monitor their kindergarten buddy. Throughout this program, there was lots of laughter, kindness and joy! It was amazing to watch strong and caring friendships grow as kindergartners firmed up their letter knowledge and 4th graders celebrated their success!

KELLY SELECTED AS SENATE PAGE

Josie Kelly, NHS Senior and NCSD Student Board Member, was recently selected to serve as a Page in the Iowa Senate.

Each year the Iowa Senate and the Iowa House of Representatives employ ambitious high school juniors and seniors of high academic standing to serve as Pages for the legislative session (January - May).

Pages are assigned to chamber benches for general assignments, sergeant-at-arms desk, Senate telephone switchboard, and to assist the President and Secretary of the Senate. Pages respond to requests from Senators and staff at their desks in the chamber, assist Senators and staff in committee meetings, and sometimes assist with the handling of Senate materials and supplies. Pages stationed at the switchboard take notices of incoming telephone calls to Senators. Pages assist in filing and distributing bills, calendars, and journals.

JOSIE KELLY

Congratulations, Josie!

McFarland Lake renovations are underway

McFarland Lake, built in the 1940s, has never seen any large-scale updates or construction – until now. The average impounded lake in Iowa has a “healthy” lifespan of about 30 years and McFarland Lake is due for improvements, which began in early December.

The renovation’s main objective is to improve water quality. Siltation over the years has caused many shallow areas, creating the need for the basin to be dug out to original depths. Construction crews will breach the existing dam to drain the lake, put a new control structure in place, and dig out the basin, while also building an additional fishing structure. The lake will fill naturally and fish will be restocked once construction is complete.

McFarland Lake and the surrounding paved Touch-A-Life Trail are currently a construction site and are closed to the public. These areas will remain closed for the duration of the project. The rest of McFarland Park will remain open (i.e. the soft/unpaved trails, Conservation Center, and playscape).

For alternative accessible, hard surface trails while this project takes place, we recommend SCORE Park in Nevada or Tedesco Environmental Learning Corridor in Ames.

Storytelling has many benefits for people as they both share and listen to stories. It can increase our cultural understanding, improve our communication skills, expand our curiosity and imagination, and help us be more social, among other things.

The Nevada Public Library is excited to introduce a new storytelling program, "Story Swap," this year.

Starting this month, Cathy Bagley of Nevada will lead this new program, which will offer storytellers of all ages the opportunity to share stories up to 15 minutes in length and based on a theme for each session. January's themes are "new beginnings" and "winter stories."

The program will be family-friendly and refreshments will be provided.

Story Swap will be held at 6 p.m. on the following evenings this winter and spring: Jan. 23, Feb. 27, March 27, April 24, and May 22.

Nevada residents invited to take part in public arts process

The City of Nevada, Main Street Nevada, and the Nevada Economic Development Council are joining forces to bring a public arts forum to our community. On Saturday, Feb. 25, a public workshop, "Nevada: Untold Stories," will feature representatives from many Nevada organizations who will share stories, sayings, and unique perspectives gleaned from surveying their specific groups. This thought-provoking exercise will begin a community-wide journey toward 'capturing the heart' of Nevada.

"Public arts is a strong factor in attracting creative-minded people to live or do business in Iowa communities," said Sandy Ehrig, a city councilwoman who during her career has been involved in community and economic development pursuits. Through her work, Ehrig has been acquainted with David Williamson, an Iowa-based artist who travels nationally as a creativity consultant to corporations, professional associations, and government agencies. Williamson will facilitate our public discussions throughout this public arts process in Nevada.

Williamson, a graduate of the University of Iowa, is the collaborating sculptor behind the DNR's Project AWARE, which was featured for a decade at the Iowa State Fair. Through Project AWARE, he assisted the public and AWARE canoeists in telling the stories of river clean-ups through the sculptures produced from metal retrieved from Iowa rivers and streams. In 2010, he received a U.S. Congressional Tribute for his work with Project AWARE.

More recently, Williamson collaborated with the citizens of Charles City to create "Revival" a 23-foot-high sculpture built from a historic pedestrian cable bridge that was destroyed when the Cedar River flooded the city. In 2021, he also created "Arch Alley" in Jefferson with a team of adults and elementary students. The Jefferson public project, including the collaborative public poem, was awarded first place in the single site creative place-making category of Main Street Iowa for 2022.

When asked what the final form of the Nevada public arts project will be, Williamson explained the answer to that question will depend on what the community's responses to key questions will reveal in February.

"All of the words, stories, phrases, and sayings shared on Feb. 25 will guide us," he said. In the spring of 2023, Williamson hopes to take the inputs from the SCORE Pavilion events and work with Nevada's third graders. The students would interpret and explore the adults' ideas and suggest final art forms to express what Nevada-area citizens have shared during "Nevada: Untold Stories."

The Feb. 25 afternoon workshop from 2:30-4:30 p.m. with the focus groups, will be followed by an evening event open to all adults from the community. The evening event will offer refreshments, including wine, plus original music by Williamsons' acoustic duo, 2B UNPLUGGED.

Both the afternoon and evening events will be held at the SCORE Pavilion along Fawcett Parkway. Nevada residents who are unable to attend either session, yet have a story or insight they would like to share, may contact Sandy Ehrig at sehrig@cityofnevadaiaowa.org. All Nevada voices are welcome in this process. "It's going to be a really valuable experience for the people who participate in it," Ehrig said.

Fire Department plans a public arts project in 2023

The Nevada Fire Department is rich with tradition as its origins date back to 1860. The Department wanted to capture some of the history for people to see in the way of a full color public mural called "A Transition Through Time."

The mural will be painted this spring on the east wall of the fire station facing 10th Street. The mural will capture some of the Department's history, along with adding sites and structures from our community.

Fire Chief Ray Reynolds met University of Iowa Art Professor Ali Hval, and invited her to the community in an effort to add public arts to the community. Ali visited Nevada and assessed the fire department's station as a perfect structure for adding the mural.

Ali is well-known as an expert muralist and has designed murals in several communities. Her passion for art is contagious. "Beyond brightening and enlivening a new space, public art has the power to transform a community and tell a part of its history in a freely accessible way. Whether abstract or representational, it can express a community's specific values and describe its unique, formative characteristics to set it apart from other communities," Ali said.

The fire department will be accepting donations to cover the costs of this art project. The mural will take about a week to complete. The paints are specially designed to last nearly two decades before major touch-ups are needed. Anyone wishing to contribute to the mural can send donations to: Nevada Firefighters Inc. %Art project, 1209 6th Street, Nevada, Iowa. 50201. Your donations are tax-deductible. Questions can be directed to rreynolds@cityofnevadaiaowa.org.

Capital campaign begins for a new fire engine

The Nevada Fire Department is planning to announce a new fire engine capital campaign to raise $300,000 in donations to offset the rising inflation cost. The engine being replaced is a 1997 Spartan fire engine holding 1,000 gallons of water. The National Fire Protection Association (NFPA) sets standards for the fire service. NFPA 1901 does not recommend using fire apparatus exceeding 25 years of service as a front-line fire engine. Unfortunately, fire engines are seeing dramatic cost increases each year. The department budgeted $500,000 for the replacement engine capable of holding 1,500 gallons of water. Raising $300,000 secures additional funding needed as rates are volatile. An example of the increases is shown in the graph below:

Ray Reynolds serves as the Director of Fire and EMS operations for the Nevada Public Safety Department. Reynolds shares, "Our town's insurance premiums are developed based on our ability to fight fires.

COMPANY	2020 QUOTE	2022 QUOTE	2023 ANTICIPATED COST
Toyne Breda, Iowa	$481,000.00	$598,338.00	$694,073.18
Sutphen Dublin, OH	$481,110.27	$616,363.71	$714,981.90

Having adequate front-line fire engines is a critical component to protecting our community." The Nevada Firefighters, Inc., is the 501C3 tax-deductible arm of the fire department. The fire department members make up this organization. "Everyone is committed to helping raise funds for this replacement engine as our highest priority for the department," said Reynolds. The department has a long-standing history of only purchasing apparatus only through budgeted funds and not through issuing community bonds which go against the city's debt ratio. Utilizing the firefighter's association as a tax-deductible entity for donations helps those who donate while also helping taxpayers reduce the costs associated with this major purchase.

Engine 310 is sometimes called the "rural" engine. This vehicle serves as our second, out-the-door engine in the city and the primary first response vehicle outside the city. The fire department protects the rural townships of Grant, Richland, Nevada, and Milford. In total, Nevada covers 137 square miles of central Story County. This is the largest fire district in the county and covers 781 calls annually (second highest is Ames). Reynolds adds, "Having a fire engine that holds 1,500 gallons of water makes the initial fire attack much safer. In town, large water capacity buys the crew time to connect to a fire hydrant and get a quick knockdown on fires. Outside of Nevada, the water must be brought to the scene from Nevada."

The department hopes to purchase a 2025 fire engine with a 1,500-gallon tank capacity. The engine will be designed to look similar to our 2017 Toyne fire engine built in Breda, Iowa. The order-to-build time is now approaching two years as cities rush to get on the list to avoid future price increases.

If you would like to contribute to the Nevada Firefighters, Inc., in support of raising $300,000 for the purchase of a new engine, please reach out to Chief Reynolds and start the conversation. Your donation is tax deductible. His email is rreynolds@cityofnevadaiaowa.org
